Wolfgang H. Nitsche

Stanford University

A graphic consisting of two concentric circles formed by repeating digits. The outer circle is composed of the digit '9', and the inner circle is composed of the digit '6'. In the center of the circles, the number '143' is written vertically.

In 1940, the mathematician Edward Kasner published the book "Mathematics and the Imagination", in which he popularized the words googol and googolplex which his nephew suggested as names for big numbers.
